Important French Victory,
Toring, October 6, —The battle which occurred near the Chateau Grallland, on the 4th, has been productive of important results. The French was one that uncentiated the evenuation of Pointhivers by the coemy. The Fruesians abandoned that point with so much precipitation that many cattle and a large amount of forage were left behind, all of which fell into the hands of the French.

Skocking Treatment of Female Prisconers—Their Atms Pinloned While Marching in the Streets.

New York, Oct. 6.—An account of the shocking treatment of Cuban ladies by the Spanisate in Havans appears in the correspondence from that city. On the 33d utilitating the prisconers, and children, reached Havans by railway, and were led from the depot to the prison under guard, and all of them, even children only five and six years old, being tightly pulmoned by the arms. At the head of the sad procession marched two handsome young ladies of eighteen years, both handcuffed. One was the daughter-in-law of President Cespodes, the other the daughter of Gen. Figuerdo, recently paroided in Santiago. The ladies were all members of the best families on the Island. As these unfortunate creatures passed through the streets the Spanish moblected and threatened theus, and in some instances attempted violence.

In his charge to the Grand Jury the other day, Judge Barrard, of the Federal Court here, declared that so long as the State Courts refuse to admit negro testimony, the Federal Court will continue to exercise jurusdiction in cases in which the rights of the negro, under the Federal law, are involved; but that the moment the courts of the State recognize the rights in question, the Jurisdiction of his court in such cases will cease. It has been believed by some that even if the State Courts should concede to the negro the privilege referred to, the Federal Court would still take eognizance of cases in which his claims are involved, but this explicit declaration of Judge Ballard sets the matter at rest.

The President ought to appoint the

The President ought to appoint the New York Standard minister to somewhere, or collector of internal revenue for somewhere else. All the genteel puffs he now gets are from that paper. For instance: "Grant is the people's President. He brought purity into the administration of the government when purity was most needed. He inspired faith in his own housesty and the stability of our institutions. He has not torfestied the good opinhonesty and the stability of our institutions. He has not iorfeited the good opinion of the country, and that good opinion will hold him in the chair he now occupies. Without him the Republican party would yield every prospect of success; but he is not only a Republican Presidenthe is better and greater than this—the President of the United States." This is seen from the Publin Freeman's Journal of September 21st, Dr. EDWARD D. The Washington Chronicle has, it seems, issued the Presidential manifesto about Missouri politics and politicians. It has been determined to use the guilloithe vigorously and effectually upon all those who dare go for the removal of the distranchisement of Missouri's perticitives. As much dare go for the removal of the distranchise-ment of Missouri's best citizens. As much as Granz Brown and Carl Schunz have done for the President hitherto, he pro-claims an exterminating warfare against them now because they decline to do his bidding. The Chronicle says they "will no longer be allowed to draw their susten-ance from the party which they have united to defeat?" and quantily adds that "the ance from the party which they have united to defeat," and quaintly adds that "the Government has quite enough to do in looking out for its friends." In Alabama, for instance, from which to that of 1880 was there an increase of but six in the population of the State? Within the same period of time, whatever it was—it is the population of the State? Within the same period of time, whatever it was—it is the population of the Delaware had the mistortune to lose two. Whether this sad lose was the result of the meaales or of emigration Mr. Connect., with all his accuracy, forgets to say. In all the rest of the States the population varies neither more nor less than in those whose names we have given.

But let us see how some of the principal towns were getting on in the meantime.

The Vice President made a speech somewhere in his old Indians district day before yesterday, in which he referred his determination to withdraw from public life at the end of his present term of office. Why this "damnable iteration" in the very middle of his Vice Presidential carrier? Why not let the thing alone altogether? He knows, as everybody else knows, that he will not retire unless forced to do so at the popular behast. His case, however, is precisely that of the cheap poet:

Oh, I wouldn't if count;
But i needs 'free knost it.

The reader may think it rather late in the day to bring this thing forward, and we agree with him. It is rather late. They have claimed the faculty was lost by disuse, while other zoologists considered them to be a special creation for "the wa-ters under the earth." This mooted ques-tion appears in a fair way of being settled, especially if Dr. MAPOTHER's fish live long enough to develop the eye into some perfectness of form. It may surprise the eader to learn that these fishes are viviparous, for such is stated to be the case by the guides at Mammott Cave, and if verified by scientific observa heights, making escape inpossible to many. The velocity of the stream problede the many. The velocity of the stream problede the possibility of any beat crossing its course.

In a short space of time the flood swept over the whole island, submerging it to a depth of several feet. A number of persons were rescued while the trestle work of the Winchester and Potomar relined, on the flats of mandelened waters, but about midnight some 250 area of the treatte work gave way. The scene of the catastrophe was no longer rist-the from the main land, though the lights in the until and some of the dwellings could still be seen. So great was the noise occasioned by the unching waters that the cries of those whose houses, one by one, with their occupants, were everyt down the stream, could not be heard. The cottages, which are mostly crom their foundations, and were dashed against each other is the stream.

The next morning (Saturday) a terrible appetacle met the eye. Only a few of the most substantial houses, torretter with the large brick floring mill, were left standbur. With the houses many of the summer of dweit and chilloren pleading for assistance that could not at that time be given to them. After daying the stown were seen to yield to the violence of the current, in some instances carrying the occupants with them.

It is not be giving way of the treasile work a family of seven persons, a man, his wife, and five children, were saved by the same process; just in time to see their dwelling pass down the stream.

An old gentleman named Wernag, a machine tand bridge-builder, 75 years of age, who resided alone in a small house upon the island, remained in his dwelling, not withstanding the rise of the water and the advice of his friends, until the frall structure was carried away; but climbing upon the top of the debris, he was safels floated down the stream until reaching Berlin, a point about seven or egul miles distant, when he was reached from his perilous position.

OTHER INCIDENTS.

The agony and terror of the fearful night were too much for the wasted atrength of an aged lady, mother-in-law of Mr. Fispatrick, living on the shand, and the morning found her a corpse.

The total in meer of the lost is variously. The total in meer of the sheet was the confusion attending so fearful a disaster the names of the unfortunates were not ascertained, though it is know that an old lady, Mr. Carroll was among those who perished. Several bridges and a portion of the track from litarper's Ferry for several miles beyond the island, on this road, are said to have been washed away.
